While Mr. Thurman was attentively listened to by a few of the older Senstors, it is a lamentable fact that more than one half of the seats in the chamber were vacant. This fact shows that the Senate of to-day depends more upon the Record than the ear-the newspaper than upon eloquence. The question was not a political one, but yet full of interest to commercial and maritime circles. In the course of his remarks Mr. Thurman paid a high compliment to Messrs. Lincoln and Seward for the exceedingly skillful and delicate manner with which they handled our foreign affairs during the late war as to keep us out of a war with England, and also to prevent England from acknowledgment of the independence of the Southern Confederacy.

The discussion was in the best of temper, and was designed to develop as fully as possible the rights of all interested parties tader the sward. Mr. Thurman exhibited a degree of familiarity with the subject which was instructive to all listeners.

A BANKEUPT PARTY. The Democratic journals are in a high state of jubilation over the recent "reunion" great mass of the thinking people of the country it has brought more strongly than ever before the conviction that the Democracy as a party is dead; that it has outlived ess; that the sooner it buries itself out of sight the better.

We do not claim that the country is alto gether satisfied with the Republican party at the present time. But, if confidence has been shaken in Re-publicanism, Democracy is in no sense the gainer. It has failed utterly, and the best gainer. It has failed utterly, and the best of unus proof in the world that it has failed is shown HANNIDAL HAMLIN has been continuously in by the proceedings of the "reunion" meeting at New York. The sale of its interest in the railroads to Democratic man agers has virtually depleted the treasury, and has robbed it of a prolific source of revenue The estimated deficit, on account of this robbery, for the years 1873-'74, is $1,035, 200, or more than half a million yearly. No one knows exactly what the aggregate amount of the debt is, but it is estimated at $25,900,000. The revenue derived from the tax assessment of 1878-'74 is $1,964,800, while the interest on the debt is at least $3,-000,000.
